Ordinary Lives: Shifting Perspectives in Housing and Social Care

Coin Street Conference Centre
108 Stamford Street
London South Bank, SE1 9NH

Thursday 21st November 2013
9.30am – 4.30pm

The 2013 Housing and Support Alliance Annual conference will celebrate the achievements of our first year and our shift towards new ways of thinking about how people with learning disabilities live their lives.

The conference will focus on challenging the 'service' culture and looking at ways that we can make sure that people with learning disabilities have more ordinary and equal lives.

We do hope that you are able to attend what we know will be a very exciting and thought-provoking day.

Speakers will include:

Ian Birrell – Columnist and Campaigner (chair)

Laurence Clarke – Comedian, presenter, writer and actor

Dr Simon Duffy – Chair of H&SA and Director of Centre for Welfare Reform

Gary Bourlet – Founder of People First in the UK

Sandie Keene – President of ADASS

Kaliya Franklin – Disability rights activist

Stephen Unwin – Theatre Director, dad and writer

Mark Neary – Writer, dad and activist

Question time

Question time will follow the familiar format and challenge our panellists with questions from the audience. It will be chaired by Ian Birrell and panel members will include Norman Lamb MP, Sandie Keene, Dr Simon Duffy, Gary Bourlet, Mark Neary and Kaliya Franklin.

The theme for questions will be: Does our social care system stop people with learning disabilities from leading an ordinary life?

Please submit questions in advance to our panellists using the form field below, by email mariana.ortiz@housingandsupport.org.uk or by post.

Who should attend?

Those involved in housing and support for people with learning disabilities including families and people with learning disabilities, policy makers, commissioners, housing and care providers, advocacy organisations and practitioners.

We have a limited number of free places for people with learning disabilities and families that we will allocate through a draw. Please contact mariana.ortiz@housingandsupport.org.uk.
